

OneMove™ Announces Integration Agreement with Chicago Title

Partnership to increase OneMove's monthly transactions by enhancing Company's online title insurance offering

Vancouver, BC, May 1, 2008 – OneMove Technologies Inc. (“OneMove” or the “Company”) (TSX-V: OM), which offers a leading web-based real estate transaction platform, today announced the execution of an agreement to integrate econveyance™, its online conveyancing software application, with Chicago Title Insurance Company’s (“CTIC”) web-based Canadian title insurance customer application, CTIC Express. This integration will enable British Columbia-based lawyers and notaries to order and receive electronic delivery of CTIC’s title insurance products and services directly through econveyance.

“Integrating our econveyance web-based platform with third-party products and services is fundamental to our continued growth,” said Martin Johnson, President and CEO, OneMove. “We believe enhancing our offering to include CTIC’s suite of title insurance products and services will drive more traffic to our econveyance web-based platform and increase our number of monthly transactions, as it extends our market reach to include CTIC’s rapidly growing customer base of lawyers and notaries across B.C.”

“We are pleased that we will be providing our title insurance products and services via OneMove’s econveyance platform,” said Gary P. Mooney, Chief Agent of Chicago Title Insurance Company Canada. “With more than 600 lawyers and notaries already using econveyance, OneMove is a proven market leader. OneMove’s offering is an ideal fit for CTIC Express, allowing us to effectively and efficiently provide the security and protection of CTIC’s products to its customers within OneMove’s proven transaction platform.”
