

OneMove™ Launches econveyance™ 8.0

Vancouver, BC, July 22, 2008 – OneMove Technologies Inc. (“OneMove” or the “Company”) (TSX-V: OM), a provider of a leading web-based real estate transaction platform, today announced the launch of econveyance 8.0, its next generation web-based conveyancing software system. Econveyance 8.0 includes several new functional elements, most significantly a realtor user interface. For this first time, realtors can initiate the online processing of a buy or sell transaction via econveyance.

“With approximately 1000 lawyers and notaries already processing real estate transactions through econveyance, extending our offering to realtors was a natural next step,” said Martin Johnson, President and CEO, OneMove. “Our users are already filing more than 35% of all the documents being filed electronically with the Land Title and Survey Authority of British Columbia. That said, in B.C., there are approximately 18,000 realtors involved in close to 200,000 MLS® residential real estate buy or sell transactions annually. We believe the launch of econveyance 8.0 positions us to even better capitalize on the province-wide shift toward a paperless property transfer process. By continuing to expand our user base, we can increase the number of transactions running through our system, which is fundamental to our growth.”

With econveyance 8.0, creating an econveyance file is no longer limited to lawyers and notaries. Realtors can now commence the processing of a real estate buy or sell transaction through the online platform and then invite buyer and seller lawyers and notaries to access the files. This new release also includes a greater selection of search criteria, and now realtors, lawyers and notaries working out of more than one branch office can access all relevant information for each location through a single user ID.
